You should do a system restore back to a point where you didn't have the virus. (Hopefully it didn't delete your restore points)

I had a virus like this before, the only thing that gave it away and made me know for a fact that it was a virus was that in those popup balloons that come up sometimes from the task bar to tell you something is happening, something popped up saying "Click this baloon to go to the security center"

Exactly word for word. They spelled "balloon" wrong. Lol.