I go to the gym, so yes please. I'd just probably much prefer an old fashioned keyboard and mouse for FPS games.

I actually shortened my post due to going off topic but since you brought that up, I must write what I previously did not. I wrote that you must maintain a healthy balance between using technology and a active lifestyle. I go jogging every morning and gym on the weekends. I enjoy the outdoors as well and am not wired into my computer.

And yes, I agree...keyboard/mouse is the best for me to play FPS games. I have Black for PS2 and can't get a grasp of the stupid controls...makes me feel nauseated.
