It isn't abuse of power. It is lack of judgment.

I know that guy... well I mean, I've played with him before. He does seem to think a lot of people use aimbots, not just you.

Have you ever played a game, single player or multiplayer, and where faced with a seemingly impossible task? The times where you, without realizing, argue outloud that it is unfair and you cannot beat it (and sometimes the occasional hi-pitched "WHAAAAT?!") You think the game is being cheap.

Well now imagine having the power to stop that. That is all that is going on. He probably has always played things easy. Always winning. If he was to play a game, he would play it on easy just to get the thrill of beating the game.

You can't reason your logic with his, it wont work and he will think you are out-right insane. What he thinks he is doing is the write thing, he isn't abusing powers.
