Subject: Re: Good Student/Web design Laptop Recommendations
Posted by genetix on Tue, 01 Apr 2008 04:18:22 GMT

I was in future shop today buying speaker wire and stopped to look at the laptops. Even though their website said they had none in stock they had the TX1000 I was looking at. I never realized how small a 12" laptop really is. Those things are tiny!

I don't think I really want a laptop with a screen smaller then 15". Anything smaller then that and general work would become annoying. A 17" screen would be ideal and 15" would be liveable. 12" is down right tiny.

The convertible feature on the laptop definately felt sturdy though. It had almost no flex to it which I expected it to have.