So in one of the threads here, MSWindows double-posted. In the second post, he edited it and put something like "opps I double posted just ignore this". So I removed the second post for him, which automatically sends an email to the user saying that their post was deleted. For the reason I put "double post", and included the contents of his post so he would remember which one it was.

Here is his response:
Prepare for Lulz...CLICK

And my response is...LOL. I am doing my job of moderating, and did you a favor my deleting your double post, and you call me an asshole and say fuck you and that you don't like my "shit"?

What a dickhead. If you weren't already banned for posting renegade cheat links I would give you a couple days to pull your head out of your ass.
