
Subject: Re: Do You Like E.A. Games?. I Think.
Posted by Spoony on Sun, 20 Apr 2008 20:53:07 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Oblivion165 wrote on Sun, 20 April 2008 14:41Section 1:

Community God? Does someone doing something more than you automatically bump them from being involved at all to God status? You do nothing, I do something. This is not that hard... Oh wait, this might help you:

Your involvement < My involvement

I'm sure H.R. Puff n' Stuff appreciates your positivity. However I want something to get done and I don't see any of those hundreds of EA related petitions going anywhere.

1. no, doing something more than me doesn't make you a god, but that's not relevant because:
2. you don't do something positive, you've just convinced yourself you do... you're just a self-absorbed thief
3. "you do nothing"... ok, I do more than you probably realise, I'm just not quite so desperate for recognition that I need to tell everyone about it... you apparently are so desperate that you need to boast about your petty crime, and that's frankly when you need to get off the internet altogether for your own good.

my involvement > your involvement, because I do something positive, you don't, and anyone reading this thread knows it... you, apparently, are too stupid to draw such a simple conclusion.

You remind me of the retards who make cheats for Renegade... the justification they always parrot out is they're doing it for a good reason to make WW/EA fix the game, and they probably believe it just like you probably believe the bullshit you're parroting out, but everyone else can see it for the garbage it is... truth is, they make cheats because they're assholes and they couldn't give a shit whether the games get fixed, just like you're lying when you pretend you give a shit whether anything improves with EA.

If you truly did, you'd actually do something to help instead of hinder... as if that ever even occurred to a selfish dipshit like you.
