It was already possible make your own hud without the released huds. Jonwil described the possible commands in a hud.ini in bhs.txt

Those who made the first huds were able to read and had the patience to create such a hud.

Reading & understanding is a real advantage. With this you all would would know how you can make huds independet from the screen solution. You find the necessary information in bhs.txt... take a close look what happens when you write negative values in XPos YPos commands... perfected explanations (you right m8)
