I for myself like to keep it simple: A good optical mouse with left, right and a wheel. Of course, I often make use of the comfy "turbo-scroll" feature by pressing the wheel (picture down here) but that's it. I "only" have 1600dpi and don't need anything higher.

I've been using a standard white microsoft mouse for YEARS with no problems. The scroll wheel is useful when gaming to scroll between standard, cheap, reliable microsoft mouse for the win.
