You guys don't honestly believe that I would put anything in the .exe to damage your computers right or anything else that is gay?

I thought after so many years, you would trust us and me.

The installers are only made with winrar, it's a really a basic program, there is no fancy code that will add stuff to a registry or find information about your computer and report back.

All you will find in the installers are two .urls, screen shot and the file you want, maybe a readme.txt as well, nothing more, I take alot of time and effort in doing all this.

But I am adding .ZIP's as well now, the first file to have dual download options is this one:
