

---

Subject: Re: Election betting thread...

Posted by Muad Dib15 on Sat, 02 Aug 2008 22:57:24 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Obama is such an idiot, its unbelievable.

Consider the hypothetical situation: My dad runs for president of the neighborhood committee. This is hypothetical and my dad doesn't act like this

What are you going to do for the neighborhood?

Dad: I'm going to start a comittee to analyze the problems in this neighborhood. Then I'm going to assign people to fix the problem.

No, what is HE specifically going to do?

Dad:I'm going to start a comittee to analyze the problems in this neighborhood.

No, what is HE specifically going to do to fix the problems other than signing it over to other people?

Dad:I'm going to start a comittee.

No, what is HE specifically going to do to fix the problems other than signing it over to other people?

This is precisely what Obama is doing. He's avoiding the questions and using the nonanswers as answers. This will only happen for so long, then people are going to want actual results and not pandering like he's been doing. Thats why I can't understand why people will elect this idiot into office. He's not the next FDR.

I originally somewhat defended him, but no more. He's an arrogant, country bashing, elitist. The fact that he got heckled by other blacks and lost means that there are some people that are seeing through his pandering. I can't stand the guy, because he's flip flopped on so many things, its not funny anymore. He's changed his gun position several times, he's moving right on the war on Iraq and Afghanistan. I just hope this idiot doesn't get into office. I also don't really care for him using the race card all the time and blaming it on the Republican party.

As Rush Limbaugh said, "If you can't stand either team, pull for the one you hate least." I'm not impressed much with McCain, I'd rather have Mitt Romney but he left. I sincerely hope his country makes the right choice.

---