Just a quick note: I was using Chrome earlier at work and the machine suddenly cut out and started booting from scratch again, and after it booted Windows reported it had recovered from a serious error. I don't know if this was actually CAUSED by Chrome or simply a coincidence, but it might be a good idea to ensure any work you have is saved before using Chrome, just in case.