Not norton one

Symantec antivirus corporate edition

It does not have all this extar shit its very simple effective as norton and not this high cpu gui and such matter of fact my laptop has 512 mb of ram with vista and with that and still runs smooth, trust me i had norton anti virus and trust me i know what your talking about its mixed everywhere high cpu high memory usage and o ya Symantec anti virus corporate edition does not require a cd key and also does not need to register or activate or renew you just install and boom your ready it works great, AVG slowed my pc down more then this Ah, they're different? Nevermind that, then. Alot of people often call norton "Symantec".
