ATi by preference.

nVidia is on my shit-list. They totally fucked up an entire generation of graphics cards, sold them anyway, then denied that there was anything wrong until it came out that the problem (which causes chronic overheating and premature failure) affected every single fucking one of the GeForce 8600M boards. Which were installed in laptops sold by every major vendor for more than a year. They will never see another penny of my money for the rest of eternity, even if they do end up making restitution of some kind.
