Big companies most likely think:
"We have our name, we have our fame, we can release whatever we want for the price we ask, people will buy it."

Also, sometimes they even force their own creations into their releases. Microsoft inherits their own browser IE7 in Vista, they inherit Media Player etc. Though Winamp is proven to be better than WMP and Firefox is better than IE7.

They're just a big bunch of jackasses which are only out on MONEY.
