Subject: Re: Mouse Buttons Sticking
Posted by havoc9826 on Tue, 17 Feb 2009 16:41:02 GMT

Goztow wrote on Mon, 16 February 2009 23:27Will ya finally do what I told you to do in one of the first replies? It's setpoint causing it, nothing else.
havoc9826 wrote on Fri, 23 January 2009 08:25I also now use a Logitech G5, and I get this problem.  I have never used the Setpoint software, yet it still happens.  I didn't have this problem when I had my Logitech MX-1000, so maybe it's just something weird with the G5.  However, with the MX-1000, I used the USB-to-PS2 adapter (but the G5 doesn't want to work at all when I use one of those), so maybe Renegade just doesn't like getting its mouse signal from a USB port.  Anyone else having problems with a different Logitech USB-only mouse?
I have even checked Add/Remove Programs and my registry, and there is no trace of any Logitech and/or SetPoint software in either of those places.  Either it's a USB Mouse problem, or something's messed up with the G5 firmware, because my G5 had the sticking problem in Renegade since the day it came out of the box.  What really sucks is that it won't accept my USB-to-PS2 adapter that I borrowed off of my MX-1000.