Hi, So after having my computer for about 4 years now and after Uninstalling an OEM xp, upgrading to vista, downgrading back to xp,reinstalling windows countless times and getting a new external hard drive, My partitions are pretty messed up. What used to be my C:/ drive is now E:/ there's a completely useless "Recovery Partition" that does nothing but collect viruses and whatever else, left over from an old HP xp OEM and I guess you get the idea. Is there any program than can help me change the names of the partitions, format some them and the like. I think I've heard of one called Partition Nuker or something before, but google didn't help me with that one.
