The camera angle doesn't change when you release v, only the reticle returns to the center of the screen.

Now i was wondering if it would be nicer to have it recenter to the point you where aiming at before you released the 'V' key.

Why ? It works just fine right now.

I was thinking this because there is a reason you where aiming at that point so wouldn't it be nicer to actually have it still targeted there when you release the 'V' key???
