at this point the tide was well and truly turned against him (whereas early in WW2, germany's military successes were astonishing) - france taken back, italy as good as beaten, russia sweeping towards berlin from the other side. instead of just do the smart thing, cut their losses and surrender, hitler wanted germany to fight till the bitter end - so what he said was that if germany lost this war, then everything he'd previously said about the superiority of the aryan race must've been entirely wrong.

a rare moment of wisdom from such a deranged lunatic, upon which he may now be taken up.
