appshot wrote on Tue, 01 September 2009 17:44i am not sure if i am correct or not... but the world trade center shouldn't have fallen straight down. The laws of physics don't permit it to fall down straight... unless there was a systematical dynamite. And also.. how was it that the building right next to it fell down, way after the original building collapse, and it also fell down straight...WITH NO FIRE OR ANYTHING.

Quote:And BlueThen, i was referring to WTC 7 as people are referring to. Sorry i didn't make it clear enough. I assumed you were smart enough. I was referring to your first statement, which I can assume was focused around the main towers, because of your context. If you were referring to WTC 7, sorry then. I can't read minds, I'm too "stupid".
