Nothing against this skin or the creator, I'm just sick of seeing this. There should be a rule, if the person is told to attach the file to the post they must upload it within 24 hours, unless of course the file is larger than 10MB, which I doubt this one is so... upload the file directly to the post!

Seriously, people have been told enough to do this, it should be the first thing you do before you even start writing the post(or write it while it's uploading).
