If there's no wall to look&shoot over/past, there is no reason to use it...it's a crutch for people who just aren't good at aiming. I'm on your favorite player's list, AoW AND sniping...who the fuck are you two? I'd could probably still beat you 2v1 and I'm not talking sniping. I'll concede that several elite tunnel-snipers excessively used V, but those are guys that could never get good at scoping, let alone AoW clanwars.

I'm not saying using V all the time is good, either. It's actually pretty stupid as you end up not getting much of a view, but its uses are certainly not limited solely to hugging. Again, mid to long range, it can be handy. I used to actually be pretty decent at sniping and would be able to pop someone from a damn long distance without scoping, thanks to free aim.
