You're comparing apples and oranges. Obviously you would still be charged with murder.. for one the person signing the contract to be killed was obviously not well mentally...

Release of liability IS that easy. Just like signing an accident waver.. xxx will not be held responsible if you get injured during your time on our property blah blah. If they tick the box agreeing to it, they agreed to it and all liability is transferred to them.

This is true under the law where our website is hosted.

I laughed pretty hard. Tiramisu is disgusting
