I am not a coder but I think gaining points from shooting tanks with making little damage is a side effect or something of making sniper rifles effective against flying vehicles and long range vehicles (mrls and mobile artillery).

You voted for the right option, but you must have missed the part explaining the error in the code.

The error only occurs when you shoot a tank with green health (meaning it still has armor), as soon as the vehicle goes to yellow and it has no armor left you start getting the points you should. Because of this bug in code you have idiots sniping tanks (besides artys/mrls apaches/orcas) doing hardly any damage, but getting RIDOCULES amouts of points/creds.
