I don't use them simply because I don't want to get sucked into their appeal. But a wide spread of people do use them and it is effectively a way to socialize with people over the internet. I also don't want to be responsible for making sure I update my situation every 10 seconds.

"Spying" on people means you secretly observe someone in order to learn information they don't want you to know. Twitter and facebook do not count as spying because the information is publicly announced by the person and they invite you to read it.
