CarrierII wrote on Thu, 13 May 2010 07:46I imagine a certain post of mine is in one of the previous topics that were linked to.

Goztow is right, the issue is that we care for the game and the community, and the cheats 0x90 produces ruin it.

Quote:
" *cheat name removed*doesn't cheat ren, cheaters do"

Yes, but they'd have a harder time doing it if the program didn't exist. If all the ingame moderators had to contend with was big-head and other BIATCH detectable stuff, we'd have it easy with banning cheaters. You might not have cheated in a game yourself, but writing a program that lets others do it doesn't help. You've clearly (by self-admission, you don't play!) never had a game ruined by your own program, so I don't think you're in a position to make such silly statements about who is to blame.

You've (indirectly, but this is not a defense) ruined hundreds (or more) games; that is, people's leisure time, time set aside form work/school/whatever for enjoying themselves has been ruined by you.

Finally a moderator on these forums sees 0x90 for who he is. If all the 'grownups' of Renegade had that sort of attitude. hell, the Renegade community would be alot better off.

HexI'm going to stop running servers and start coding cheats, thats all you need for Reborns respect! The sad thing is, Reborn's not the only guy who supports 0x90.. I fail to see how educated men and woman who put so much of their time and money into Renegade can simply turn a blind eye to 0x90. So what if he hasn't broken any rules on the forums, The forums are the 'Offical Renegade forums' I don't see next to it -all cheaters welcome open arms ..

It's funny, when someone's found cheating then the mods here post the ip and serial etc. But when the guy that's made the cheat comes on the forums, he's allowed to do as he pleases..

I'm a 16 yr old that loves Renegade and yet I have more logic than 30 yr olds that have played longer than me? words fail me.