

---

Subject: Re: Jus wondering ..
Posted by Spoony on Tue, 18 May 2010 15:05:16 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

ImJamie wrote on Tue, 18 May 2010 09:34 Firstly the league was alive when I first arrived with 1000's of games in the months I played. Maybe not the same as it was in its prime but I could always instantly get a game. Dunno if you class that as alive, but I and many other do.
when are you talking about?

Quote:Secondly the month before you banned clear and simpleton was the most active the league had been in a long time and there was one factor that changed the next month when the league was once again dead and that was the banning of them two.
you've already been humiliated in this subject, sorry.

the league could've gone on just fine without scum like simpee... you had me, for example. i played actively and led a clan, and there was never a point where you had to worry about me playing unfair (compare that to simpee for a moment). i eventually quit because i was disgusted with the community. so if you're going to overly simplify matters and say "it died when person X left and therefore what drove person X out is what killed the league" then the community killed the league. it's the unavoidable conclusion of your bullshit train of logic.

you also ignore the enormous number of warnings simpee was given, all of which he ignored, and the repeated pronouncements that he could lift the ban very quickly by a straightforward apology (not much to ask after everything he'd done) and some assurance that he'd behave fairly and honestly in the future (shame he didn't seem physically capable of that)

Quote:Thirdly, why did the post office want me to pay £10 customs charged for my EA game that I won.
I've no idea, but I'm sorry to hear it.

---