Subject: Re: RSF Raptor
Posted by Zion on Tue, 25 May 2010 21:17:09 GMT

I don't see why he was banned. If you can gain any of the information in his HUD by pressing a key, what's stopping you displaying that information without pressing a key. If you can show how many mines have been laid, or how much health your building has without point and aim (or pressing a key), why when you show this information all the time does it become a cheat?

Plus, he did not link to it, or give any sort of hints on what to google for it. You're left for your own devices. If you really wanted to you could google for "cheat name removed" (which is otherwise not filtered as cheat name removed) and then google that from here.

If you're banning this person for telling you to google for his HUD which shows information all the time (information that you can get as a keypress), then you should ban everyone else who even made a post referring to cheat name removed.

I vote on the ban being lifted.