Understand me right, killing innocent people is never the right thing to do, but the definition of terrorism is based purely on opinion. One mans terrorist is another's freedom fighter.

Edit: any killing is wrong. One can never determine whether the other truly deserved it and you're no better than the one you despise when you murder him, whether legally allowed or not, it's still morally wrong.

Let's assume you're right, and all you said above was true. Whether they're a freedom fighter or terrorist in this argument is irrelevant really. What you class them as is just a word.

Not all Muslims are terrorists, but it's a sad truth that nearly all terrorists are Muslim.

If it helps, change it to:

Banning the Burqa would help hinder acts of freedom fighting/terrorism.
