no, no it would not

It's only an immature method of fighting a problem, when there are so many other alternatives.

Said alternatives won't be heard of because it involves the removal of the ability to use religion as a form of propaganda as it is... but then, if they did that, they wouldn't be able to do so with christianity like they'd been doing for years (unless they want to be seen for being the obvious hypocrites they are).

Really, banning the burqa is the equivalent of taking someone's hat during an argument and then going "HAHA I WIN, I HAVE YOUR HAT". It's immature, it's retarded, and it gets nothing done except make the other person beat the fuck out of you.
