Subject: Re: MySQL with SSGM?
Posted by reborn on Sun, 18 Jul 2010 19:20:33 GMT

Is the plugin itself creating the database and tables and such, or are you manually creating that first, then allowing the plugin to use it?

Is the plugin multi-threaded? Does it need to be?

I don't know much about databases at all, really, let alone securing it. Would you need to make it so secure if the database was being access locally on the machine, and was not set-up for remote access to the DB?