Hypnos, what Starbuzzz said is basically correct. Most bugs will be found regardless of what game it is tested with. Yes, there will likely be some left when testing only with APB, however, those are likely small, easy to fix ones. Current testing is not aimed to find those, it's aimed to find major regressions, which apply to all games. Eventually, yes, it will be tested on Renegade as well; just not yet.

The 2.5 credits thing you are talking about Gozy is actually a bug -fix-, because it now reads the correct value from the objects.ddb. It can easily be changed to 2, but that does not involve any change in the code, hence isn't important to find at this point.
