The thing is, from what I can tell, SSnipe is a sociable person. I don't think he's too stupid to use a search engine, he's just friendly and enjoys the interaction with others...

When someone in real life asks you a question, you don't tell'em to just fucking google it. Perhaps there is another reason why they're asking you? They respect your opinion? They want to get to know you better? They want to integrate themselves?
