The database will be used for storage not related or accessed by php, so php is not an issue here.

The GRANT command was what was returned by google...

I will try removing the database file and see what happens.

I deleted the database directory, and ran the installer again. The config completed itself, and popped up, however when i try to login to create a database, it still gives the Access Denied error... Looks like it's no luck.