
Subject: Re: Who is the best Renegade player(s) nowadays?

Posted by Spoony on Tue, 16 Nov 2010 13:56:42 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

liquidv2 wrote on Tue, 16 November 2010 00:04i think simpee's point is a player can wreck every single vehicle on the opposing team and get far less credit (in terms of point value) than a person hitting the opposing team's buildings under the first player's cover duhh?

Quote:the skill required to do the former may heavily outweigh the latter but it does not matter because the latter (the player hitting buildings) will receive much more points for doing so that's the way the game was set up; the players hitting buildings are supposed to get a lot more because they're damaging the more valuable targets, even if doing so is far easier than killing helicopters and tanks and infantry that fire back at you if simpee and the other pro-pointbug morons were serious in this, here's what we ought to be seeing them say all the time:

"i drove a teammate and covered his beacon with my APC, he got 750 by killing the building and i only got 20 points killing a few engis, why shouldn't i have more points than him when what i did was more skilful?"

"i got a strip block APC at the beginning of complex/canyon and made sure nod didn't get a single vehicle, then 5 minutes later my teammates had meds stomping all over the nod base and we won. but i only have 50 points despite neutralising the entire enemy team's vehicle capacity" why don't we ever hear them say this?

i strip block on complex and canyon all the time, and i frequently hand my team the victory on a plate that way. i'm often last in individual score by doing so, do you think i give a shit about that?

and why don't we ever hear them complain about someone on their team having a higher score by shooting tanks with a ramjet? a player who's doing absolutely NOTHING to help the team's situation (and takes fuck all in the way of skill, and which is MUCH easier to do than hammer enemy buildings with an art cos you don't have to be in enemy territory) but getting thousands of points? not only do they never complain about this, they ridicule me for complaining about it.
