It's just not what you do.

Even Georges St. Pierre the Welterweight champion of UFC, in the Top 2 Pound for Pound in the world. When asked who he thinks is in the top pound for pound list, he won't even mention himself.

If you're the best, people will recognize that. You shouldn't have to fight it and bring up points to prove it. You definitely shouldn't have to drag in friendly lobbywars that we're just getting started, into it. Just play the game, and if you win the majority of the time, and kick ass, people will notice. Already lots of people on this forum consider you to be up there or at the top. So why not just leave it at that. Jumping into the fray and claiming #1 was a mistake, because now you've awaken the sleeping giants (maybe thats a good thing for Ren's activity).

Kill, Simpee, even Poison, you'd never hear any of them claiming to be #1. I've never seen any of them post a list of best playas with themselves at the top.
this would all be well and good if not for the fact that Best Player threads happened at clanwars all the time. on the last point, perhaps you haven't noticed how angry simpee always gets when someone says he's not the best. so angry that he'll tell all his usual lies to try to win the argument, just like he always did in every other argument (pointsfix etc). perhaps you've also noticed how absolutely berserk this thread has made hitman; the concept that i might be better than him at renegade has his blood vessels on the verge of bursting (even though he never had a problem saying i was better than him before). and again, look how hard he's trying to avoid conceding any points to me; look how many times he's lied about stuff, look how many times he's obviously so unable to refute anything i did say that he tries pretending i said other stuff instead so he can refute that. haven't you noticed any of this?

by contrast, i'm just answering the question, and saying why. who would've thought it would drive hitman and simpee over the edge? well, i could've guessed its effect on simpee, but hitman...
wow. i miss the old hitman, before he went insane. see my earlier point; he was always fine saying i was better than him. now he says he was always better than me. we're dealing with either a liar or someone who simply has no connection with reality.
