the video made me burst out laughing he had a nod soldier charging the bar from the left side on Complex some engineer came up towards him and he hit the aimbot button but did a 90 degree turn into the rock the moment his gun started firing; there was a gdi soldier on the other side that was closer than the engineer he was standing there caught red-handed unloading his rifle fully into a wall despite an enemy being directly in front of him that wouldn't happen with the newer version of the cheat, but this was also before that was released
