

---

Subject: linux

Posted by Blazer on Fri, 12 Sep 2003 18:18:30 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I suppose one could look at the LFDS as a Beta because it was not finished. The LFDS is the EXACT same code tree as the Win32 FDS. The only things missing from it are WOL support because those libs were not ported over, which was planned on being added later.

That aside, Mac and I will have a Linux version of the RenGuard server app. The prototype will be written in PERL and then will be ported to a compiled binary.

So, fear not, Linux servers in GSA mode will benefit from RenGuard as well.

---