For my PC, well right now I'm sucked into playing "EA's NFL Madden 2004" on PC. I play it online alot. If you're a big Football (American) Fan liek I am you'll get sucked into the online Multiplayer. Not only that you can make your own plays and test them out online. And I have to say, anybody that played me online in Madden 2004 knows that i always plays with the Bears and also knows that my "URLACHER BLITZ DEFENSIVE PLAY" is nothing to MESS with and my own "Explosive 4-9 Offensive play" as I call it is CANNOT be beat.

Also play "EA's MVP Baseball 2003" Online Muliplayer. I have a good record with the Cubs in that one.

I also gotten back to play Starcraft and the Expansion Pack Brood War. I forgot how much i missed playing that game.

For my Nintendo Gamecube, been playing alot of Soul Calibur II. I love playing with Link. Link always been my favorite character since the Nintendo days. I love facing my friends. I always kick their asses.

For PS2, I went back to play Resident Evil. I just love playing that game. Only game that ever scared the shit out of me while playing. Only game I play with the lights on. I also bought Soul Calibur II for PS2. I play that also. getting back to playing SOCOM: Navy SEALs online again. Also went back to playing MGS 2: Sons of Liberty, just to make fun of Raiden.

And for arcade, yes I went back to play arcades at the local arcade. I said to myself, "Well the first videogames I ever played was on arcade cause I never had a home system. Might as well go back to what i used to play." I always play this Sniper arcade game called Silent Scope EX. One bad ass game to play. I never use the Scope when i play. Just aim and shoot. Get head shots like crazy. Then I play other shooting arcade games like Time Crisis 2, Time Crisis 3, and Crisis Zone. Then play some Fighting games like Street Fighter and Tekken against the Japanese players at the arcade (They spend all damn day there).

Thats pretty much it. Now I'm off to the Arcade to see how I fair again.
