General HavocThe code below would make a table(<TABLE></TABLE>
) with one row in (<TR></TR>) and 3 cells (<TD></TD>). IF you type your text in between the first set of (<TD>) tags then it would place the test in the first table cell.

You can add additional rows using the (<TR>) tags and also cells withing them (<TD>). The border attribute allows us to see what we are doing whilst testing.

<TR>

<TD</TD>
<TD</TD>
<TD</TD>

</TR>

</TABLE>

Ok, but what about the above stuff I am confused with, I knew about the table, and am already useing tables in my site. Thanks anyway.
