Just in case anyone else has the same problem, with mac's help we found the problem, and fixed it. . .

The problem was that I had edited the config files on a PC before uploading them to my Linux box, and so every line of the files had the Windows end-of-line character, instead of the Linux one. A quick pass through dos2unix made it all better.

--Woodrow