I was thinking, it would be kinda cool if you could type while playing. When you type you can't move or shoot. If they could make it so that you could still look around and shoot and maybe hold down another button like backspace and still move around that would be cool.

You could pre-type in a message, run around, and when the situation is right, you could press enter...

I don't know how difficult this is to do... so I don't know if I'm asking for a lot... but if could you could do it, it would be cool.
