Subject: Re: Were did i go wrong?
Posted by Sir Phoenixx on Fri, 19 Dec 2003 00:28:43 GMT

InfinintA good example would be the thread going were someone is asking for cheats for SP assuming that i thought he was going to use them in MP when all i was doing is asking.

I did not assume anything, you thought that he might use them for MP so you wanted to verify this. Why don't you go back and actually try reading that thread this time. He CLEARLY stated that he was looking for cheats for SP, he never implied even slightly that he'll use them for MP. But you obviously don't read before replying. I was only stating the FACT that it was VERY obvious that he was only looking for a cheat for SP and not MP.

And to answer your question, you don't read before replying, and you jump to conclusions and take everything the wrong way. (As evident by your posting of this thread.)