Yeah, I mean there is just so much creativity in the original Westwood team that made CNC/RA1, it would be hard for any game to ever surpass those accomplishments. I'm still dissapointed about Tiberian Sun, it was the beginning of the end, the make or break game that ruined WW. The first 2 CNC's were so good that almost all the life left in the series is still coming from those games. I still think CNC1 was the best video game ever made, and there is nothing that comes close to rivaling it in my mind. Balance was not a real big thing back then so the actualy play is a little broken, but the graphics, creativity, sound, music, videos, storyline, and overall fun factor cannot be matched. I am still surprised to find out how many people have played the original Command and Conquer.[/u][i][b]
