Yes, I have little talent. I have great ideas for my layouts...but I have lacked any skills in graphics design to increase the look of them. I am finally starting to learn how to create graphics in PS. My avatar was created in PSP and that was a premade background that I thought looked decent so i threw it together. I really do need to change that up tho.

I agree about Apocalyptic Media being weak and so forth. I have been learning that I have about the most talent in my group (except BadBoyGFX in graphics). Just my second true day in PS, I have already learned how to produce more quality work than DarkDemin. I can't believe that I actually somewhat envied him in his graphics skills a few months ago. In Dark's defense, I do believe that none of his work was really stolen. I too find it hard to believe that he made those shells pixel by pixel, but yet I believe him.
