As it has been said before, Windows just plain sucks; however everyone else uses it. That is the ONLY reason why we still use Windows. Mac OS will only sell with Apple brand computers; whereas, almost every other computer uses Windows.
Linux is great for buisness-type operations; ie: networking, stocking/shipping records, merchandise databasing, ect.
Mac OS, especially OS X, are definately reliable systems. They are also excellent machines for producing/editing graphics, as stated before. However, it lacks the diversity of sofware as compared to that of Windows.

In the end, it all depends on what the individual person wants.
