You're one to talk about getting an education, take a good look at your spelling and grammar.

And what exactly did you mean by this.

Quote:

Even if there where no cuts in the payments you still could not get the car you want, the TV you desirve, and the big house you would like to live in on those payments. I say screw trying to live a mediocer life on goverment checks from militry service, I want more money, and I can get more if I use the service as a refrance on my next job application, SO FUCK SITTING ARROUND, I WANT A REAL PAY CHECK!

People in the armed forces make a decent salary. Many of them do not serve for the money but for the honour and pride of fighting for their country.

Quote:

That should get your foot in the door for at least a job that pays 3$ more then minimum

This shows you have no clue what you are talking about, servicemen (and women) even as a low rank enlisted make more than $3 above minimum.

Quote:I is nice that you serve, and it sucks that your payments got chopped, but you really can't expect to depend on those any ways. You got to go out and get a job, and an edjucation to get a good one worth having, other wise people who complain about the cuts are BSing even if the statement is true.

Correct me if I am wrong but it looks like you are saying being in the military is not a real job.
