Why wouldn't Iraqis fire their missiles? They are being invaded. The only weapons the Iraqis were not supposed to have are weapons of mass destruction and missiles that could reach Israel. The only "violation" was the al Samoud Missile which when tested WITHOUT THE WEIGHT OF A GUIDANCE SYSTEM AND WARHEAD exceeded its allowed range by 15 miles. Most of those were destroyed, however Iraq stopped the process when it became obvious that the US was going to invade no matter what.

Of course the Iraqis are going to shoot at the invading army with what they have left. Wouldn't you?
