I'm rather fond of San'gria, myself...not too harsh, very tasty.

Although there is something to be said for my sister's Amaretto sours. Good stuff.

Always in moderation, of course, never while driving. Drunk isn't fun, especially after it's over...or so I'm told; I've made a point of NOT getting drunk, and never intend to either.

But you must make a point of not bringing it to school. There's enough bombed/stoned/floored morons waddling about during school hours- some dip thought it appropriate to bring a gatorade bottle full of moonshine into my school at one point, and the whole damn room smelled like booze breath.
