
Subject: "U.S. government objectives in Iraq"
Posted by havocsnipe on Sun, 23 Mar 2003 00:44:42 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

All this still, does not prove anything.
Though on the report it talks about doubt on iraq's disarmament.

Still there is no solid evidence that Iraq has nukes at this time.

No nation has a right to conquer another nation just because the ruler is a dictator.

KOFI ANNAND the UN Secretary warned the US not to go to war without the UN's permission.
United States has gone to war illegally against the UN's charter.

coalition countries which are secretly backing US, they doing this cause they are afraid and the other reason they get financial aid from US to cater american interests.

Turkey one example

Russia and countries are pushing this to the UN.
Wanting the UN to do something about this.

US supports many tyrants around the world.
egypt. president.
pakistan. president
saudi arabia
many more in the middle east.
some tyrants in south america.

These tyrants who are supported by US are hated by their people but they hate the US even more for backing these tyrants.
these tyrants do not support democracy yet they receive AID from US.

There are mass protests around the world almost in every country against this unilateral attack on iraq.

Also Iraq has nothing to do with 9/11.

No proof Iraq has links with usama.

Iraqi baath party are not muslim, they are socialists. they don't believe in god.
They carry different ideology from al-Qaeda.
in fact 2 weeks ago Usama bin Laden urged the Iraqi population to rise and remove Saddam Hussein.
What is this Bush/Usama alliance to topple Saddam.
