EnglandPiMuRhoKIRBY098This is very sad. Remember this though, England:

Two of your own pilots rammed each other in helos, killing one of ours too. It happens. It's part of being a warrior.

and one of yours crashed the night before, killing 8 UK and 4 US marines.

Crashed, not opened fire

Listen, ACCIDENTS happen behind the trigger, and behind the flight stick. That's the point, but since you need to nitpick, I see there's no reason to continue. And the british had incidents where they killed friendlies in the last war too. It's not like the Americans are running rampant killing everything that moves. Prove that you have reasoning ability, and think a little before posting anti-american posts. We saved your country from annihilation twice too.
